OPERATOR TELLS STORY OF RESCUE

Gives Thrilling Description of Disaster Which Overtook Steamship Kentucky.

ESCAPE WAS VERY NARROW

'S. O. S." Signal Is Kept Going Until Alamo Is Sighted.

Savannah, Ga., February 5 .- W. G. McGinniss, the wireless operator of the wrecked steamship Kentucky, now on board the Alamo, to-day told the boys' and the rescue of the captain and crew of the Maliory liner, sending the story to the station of the United the story to the station of the United Wireless Company, McGinniss says:

"The Kentucky left Newport News February 2 for St. Lucia. We got our report into Norfolk and passed Hatteras February 3, everything progressing nicely with the exception of rough scas. The vessel pitched rather hard. At 12 P. M. a leak was reported, and by 2 A. M. February 4, every one was by 2 A. M. February 4, every one was on deck, as the water was slowly overon deck, as the vater was slowly over-coming the pumps. At 2:30 A. M., the captain called me and stated the condi-tion of the ship, and at the same time telling me he did not think there was any danger, but to see if I could get any one in case we needed them. He was headed for Charleston, and ex-pected to reach there safely without only way to do was to put all hands to work to keep the dyname running, regardless of anything cise, as the ship was settling fast. Mr Lacy wrapped the whole thing, dyname and turbine engine, in canvas, which gave her eight inches before it would burn the armature out. We kept in constant communication with the Alame after she gave us her position and turned in the direction we judged she was. We made about two miles toward her la Serious Mood.

Rockefeller's $25,000 Will Not Be Used to Probe White Slave Traffic.

ISpecial to The Times-Dispatch I New York, February 5.—So interested has John D. Rockefeller, Jr., become in the so-called white slave traffic question which the special grand jury, of which he was foreman, looked into his though the was foreman, looked into his monitorial to the substitution of his own pocket for a complete investigation. The offer was refused by District Attorney Whitman and Judge O'Sullivan. The Board of Estimate, at Mr. Whitman's request, appropriated the money.

The grand jury investigation did not accomplish much beyond revealing conditions which have been familiar for years to men and women who know manything about life in big communities. But the grand jury struck several trails which promise to produce big results if carefully followed.

Experts said it would cost at lenst $25,000 for the hire of private detertives and the enlistment of the interest of persons who could discover the real facts.

With the contingency in mind, Mr. Brockefeller came forward with his pror of financial ansternees. Atlanta, Ga., February 5.—Fellowing criticisms of Umies! States Circuit Junge Newman for refusing to make a government gauger tell what he knows about the operation of a distinery Judge A. W. Fite, of Dade county, in a public eard, says:

"I've done my duty, Now let the Governor do his. A brewer is making lager beer in open and notorious defance of the law, even in sight of the Governor's mansion, in Atlanta. Now, what is going to be done?"

Fite, who is a State judge, summoned Gauger Stegall to testify as to the operation of the Curcion Piclificty.

Stegall refused heromer meditary, we to half, in the least ing the l

IN UNIQUE MATCH

Golf Enthusiasts at Pinchurst Are Enjoying Great Sport.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Pinchurst, N. C., February 5,-"You may be a star putter," said C. H. to his friend, Guy E. Rovinson, of Searsdale, "but I can trim you good and plenty in an eighteen-hole match, Auditorium,

"You can, can you," retorted Mr. Robinson. "You're on, and what for?"
"Well," replied Mr. Matthiessen, "suppose you wheel me to the golf club-house and back in the mail pish-cart | house and back in the mail pish-cart if I win, as I surely will, and I do the same for you if I lose, as I surely won't: It may serve as an everlasting lesson to you."

That was the way it started, and naturally the novel wager and the unique match attracted general attention. The surprise of the result, however, was that the challenger was defeated, Mr. Robinson's sepre totaling 90, to 99 for Mr. Matthlessen.

The bet, however, has not been paid annual St. Valentine's tournament, which begins Wednesday and confinues through the week, the event being preceded by an invitation mixed foursome, and for which a field of some twenty-five couples is entered.

Ashland, Va., February 5.—RandolphMacon won in the annual basketball contest with William and Mary, in the college gymnasium last night, in one of the prettlest and most closely fought games ever witnessed here.
The visitors led at the end of the first haif, but Randolph-Macon's stars excelled in the second haif, overcoming the lead of their opponents, and closing the game ahead by three points.
It was a see-saw contest that kept the crowd of spectators eagerly expectant.

The game ledeal the same as

crowd of spectators eagerly expectant.

The game lacked the roughness generally characteristic of this class of college sport, and this is due in large measure to the capable manner in which W. Y. Reithard, of the Rishmond Y. M. C. A. a thorough student of the rules, judged every play. There were comparatively few fouls, and nothing that even tended to show anything but the cleanest rivalry. Captain Smith played the best game for the Yellow Jackets, while Captain Driver was easily the best tosser from Williamsburg.

SHEPHERD.—At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the A. L. Shepherd Lumber Company, held at its office, February 5, 1910, the following resolution was adopted:

In the infinite wisdom of God, who doeth all things well, MR. EMMETT ALBIN SHEPHERD, our president, was suddenly called to rest from his labors on the 29th day of January, He became a worthy successor to his father, the late Mr. Albin L. Shepherd, in 1896, and, by his patience, energy and integrity, forged this corporation, organized in 1891 during the panic, into one of the most prominent in the city. We bear testimony, with many others, to his noble and generous heart, his lofty ideals in the conduct of business, his love for his fellow-men by his helping hand, his charming manners in simplicity which graced his bearing, and his sympathetic feelings to all in the hours of trials—he was to no few persons their best friend—his faithful discharge of his arduous duties: all of which won our highest admiration as a true man, the development of the Christian's life.

To his widow, children and brother we extend our heartfelt sympathy, assuring them that we also have sustained a personal loss of an excellent executive officer and associate.

That this resolution be recorded

That this resolution be recorded in the minutes, a copy be presented to his family, and published in The Times-Dispatch.
